Selection Process

To select three influencers for Moon Valley Organics, we first checked the list of people the brand was following, then explored the followers of those individuals to find someone else who aligns with the company's mission.

We also searched through sustainable living influencers or influencers who promote other brands similar to Moon Valley Organics. Before selecting these influencers we made sure to look through their feed, comments, and who they followed. In addition to this we looked into their values, and what other people had to say about them. We did this to ensure the influencers we picked would be beneficial to Moon Valley Organics.
